LeakReceipts · a VyRal Dynasty company

Church Distribution Partner Playbook

Free for every church

How a church can share LeakReceipts' free money tools with its members: a simple money night, a resource table, and the privacy rules that protect every family.

Built for pastors, ministry leaders, deacons and anyone who serves families' practical needs in a congregation.

Educational only. Not legal, tax or financial advice. No income promised, projected or implied.

We walk by faith, not by sight · 2 Corinthians 5:7

READ THIS FIRST

How to use this book

Nothing in this playbook costs the church anything. Pick one of the three ways to share in Part 2 and use the plan in Part 3.

Every number in this book is tagged VERIFIED (a published source, named on the page), CALCULATED (worked from numbers shown) or ESTIMATE (with its basis). Where a rule changes from state to state, the page tells you where to look yours up instead of printing one state's rule as if it were everyone's.

What's inside

1. Why a church, and what members get
2. Three ways to share
3. Running a money night
4. Privacy and care rules
5. Keeping it going

PART 1 OF 5

Why a church, and what members get

Families bring money worry to church long before they bring it to a bank. A church can point them to tools that help them see where their money goes, at no cost to the family or the church.

Free tools members can use themselves

- The free leak check on their own pay stubs, bills and statements.
- Free calculators: paycheck, budget, loan and car payment, and more.
- Free guides, such as the Benefits Application Organizer for SNAP, Medicaid and unemployment.

Members use every tool on their own phone or computer. The church never handles anyone's financial documents.

PART 2 OF 5

Three ways to share

1. A resource table or bulletin insert

Print the free tool list and the web address. Place it at the welcome table, in the bulletin or on the screen before service.

2. A money night

A 60-minute evening in the fellowship hall. A volunteer walks through one free tool on the screen, and families try it on their own phones. No one shares their numbers with the room.

3. A ministry referral

When someone comes to the benevolence ministry, the volunteer can share the free tools alongside whatever help the church gives.

PART 3 OF 5

Running a money night

1. Two weeks out: announce it from the pulpit and in the bulletin. Ask people to bring their phone and one recent pay stub or bill.
2. Room: a screen, Wi-Fi, chairs with space for privacy, and a printed sheet of the free tools.
3. Opening (5 minutes): prayer and the purpose: seeing clearly, not judging anyone.
4. Walk-through (20 minutes): one free tool, start to finish, using a made-up example on the screen.
5. Try it (25 minutes): families run it on their own phones. Volunteers help with the screens, not the numbers.
6. Close (10 minutes): where to find more free tools, and prayer.

WORKSHEET

Money night plan

Task	Who	Date	Done
Announcement
Room and screen
Printed tool sheets
Walk-through volunteer
Helpers (one per 10 people)

PART 4 OF 5

Privacy and care rules

- The church never collects, copies or keeps a member's pay stubs, statements or account numbers.
- Volunteers help with how to use the tool, never with entering someone else's private details for them.
- No one is asked to share numbers with the room.
- Nothing said at a money night is repeated outside it.
- Volunteers don't give legal, tax or investment advice; they point to the free tools and to licensed professionals.

Churches recognized under section 501(c)(3) are prohibited from participating in political campaigns for or against any candidate (VERIFIED: IRS Publication 1828). Keep money nights about families' own finances.

Sources:
IRS, Publication 1828, Tax Guide for Churches & Religious Organizations, read 21 Nov 2026 · https://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/p1828.pdf

PART 5 OF 5

Keeping it going

A money night once a quarter keeps the tools in front of families. Rotate the tool each time: paycheck, budget, bills, benefits. Ask one family each quarter, with their permission, to share in their own words what they learned; never share their numbers.

WORKSHEET

Quarterly calendar

Quarter	Date	Tool featured	Families attended	Volunteer lead

NEXT STEP

Keep the money you find

Every free tool is at leakreceipts.com. For churches that want the business side too, The Faith-Based Business Playbook is free in the LeakReceipts library.

TrueNET helps a household see what it really keeps, at truenetapp.com.

We walk by faith, not by sight · 2 Corinthians 5:7